

Task

You need to create a CD cover, front and back. Your CD cover should use images that you think represent you. You will also need to select (or create) ten song titles that sum up important aspects of your life. You will be asked to write about your CD cover, explaining the choices you have made and what these show about you.

Really this is an autobiography with a twist!

Step one

Make a list of ten important aspects of your life. You may like to think about the following things:

- friends / family
- interests / hobbies
- likes / dislikes
- music / food / cinema / books, etc.
- major events: favourite holidays, important memories, etc.
- ambitions / the future

Step two

Take the ten points you have selected and convert them into short song titles which you think reflect that incident. You can use song titles that already exist or make up your own.

Step three

Design a CD cover which you think reflects your personality and life. Think carefully about the colours, images, fonts and layout that you choose. Your cover should be the same size as a real CD cover and your song titles should appear on the reverse.

Step four

You should be prepared to explain your song title choices. To do this you will need to describe why the aspects of your life that you have chosen are important to you. Provide details and be as honest as possible.

Try to introduce your piece in an interesting way. Use a range of adjectives and varied sentences to capture the attention of your audience and provide detail.
