

Y9 What if?...

You have been learning about coastal landscapes and processes in your new topic in Geography. We would like for you to take up our Enrichment challenge to complete a written piece of work to describe what the world could be like if the ocean becomes the world's dustbin. You may want to do some research of your own before you start writing your ideas down but please be as creative as you wish!

You should aim to include the following in your written piece:

- How much waste is already being dumped into the world's oceans
- Impacts of waste being dumped into the world's oceans that already exist
- Reports from the places worst affected by this
- Predictions of what could happen if we continue to dump our waste into the ocean
